A Dynamic Industry

Émile Zola wrote of the rise of the grand magasin in Paris as the revolution of 19th Century retail.

Now, luxury flagship stores are pioneering innovative retail experiences from live performance to interactive mirrors, all powered by cutting-edge technology.

Industry Solution

We have worked with many Fashion & Apparel businesses, from Manufacturers to Wholesalers to e-retailers, over many years and have developed Mercurius TailorMade as a specific platform to provide the functionality you need to run a successful business in today's competitive environment.

THE CHALLENGE

Fashion is becoming faster than ever.

Instead of the traditional two seasons per year, fashion houses are now turning out pre-collections and capsule collections alongside their main lines and retail stores are turning over stock every six weeks in an attempt to feed a constant appetite for consumerism.

This puts pressure on the whole supply chain from textile manufacturers to point-of-sale and means manufacturers, wholesalers, retailers and e-retailers are more reliant on accurate information than ever to streamline their operations.

THE SOLUTION

In an age of digital innovation, resource management is not a place businesses can afford to fall down.

Microsoft Dynamics 365 Business Central is an ERP (Enterprise Resource Planning) solution giving businesses in the Fashion & Apparel industry control over their inventory, procurement, sales and financials as well as providing them with accurate data through Cortana Intelligence advanced forecasting to make educated decisions.

Mercurius TailorMade manages the complex matrix required for the Fashion industry effortlessly, simplifying Product Data Management (PDM) and accelerating the creation of Sales Orders, Purchase Orders and Bills of Material. It is also able to harness multiple size systems and switch between them instantly.

Most importantly, TailorMade is fully customisable to the requirements of your business, meaning you can harness the power of the capabilities you do need while removing the hassle of those you don't.

COLOUR-SIZE MATRIX

Effortlessly manage product data by combining variables such as size, fit and colour to form one variant with one variant code.

Traditionally, most ERP systems would require you to store each variation of a product as a separate item. With matrix functionality, you can store your inventory in a matrix format, keeping all variants of the same product under one item with one item code. In much the same way, you can enter all variants of an item on one line when creating a sales or purchase order.

EXPEDITED ITEM CREATION

Easily create new items on the fly with item creation tools.

As is the nature of your business, you'll likely have hundreds or thousands of SKUs with new products added on a regular basis. When creating a new item, use item templates to apply default values or copy details from an existing item to speed up the process.

AUTOMATIC SHIPPING COST CALCULATION

Take the guesswork out of shipping costs.

Your ERP system likely already knows the weight of your items and the weight of a carton, as well as how shipping costs vary by weight. Leverage this knowledge to automatically calculate shipping costs as you go.

SIZE CONVERSION

Use multiple size systems and easily switch between them.

Store your products under UK, EU or US sizing and allow your customers to find their perfect fit by converting between all three.

PRODUCT IMAGE GALLERY

Show off your products from every angle.

Add multiple images to each of your items to show your products at their best or demonstrate the different colours and fits available.

OMNICHANNEL INTEGRATION

Give your customers an effective omnichannel experience.

Integrate your webstore, sales portal or point of sale system to get a full, up-to-date view of your inventory across channels. Offer click and collect and allow customers to check store availability from the comfort of their own homes.

Available integrations include:

- ✓ Magento
- ✓ Shopify
- ✓ Shopware
- ✓ WooCommerce
- ✓ NP Retail & NP Ecommerce
- ✓ Vend
- ✓ Microsoft SharePoint
